Conference Editorial Board

Scientific Committees

Reviewing is an essential part in academic and in scholarly publishing. Most Scientific conferences and journals rely upon peer review to validate submitted work and to propose a valuable feedback.

Peer review process proposes the widely accepted method for research validation and a essential part of scientific publishing process. We rely on effective peer review processes to uphold the quality, validity and necessary feedback for authors, and to propose a possibility to receive new skills and knowledge for academic and professional growth for all members of our Committees.

Conference Evaluation

This conference adopts single blind peer review, where authors are not aware of the identity of reviewers.

Each paper is validated by at least 2 reviewers (more than two reviewers in average).

Each paper goes through double tier approval process

Scientific Committee Evaluation - Reviewers Committee

Technical Committee Evaluation - Formal Check

Are rules and requirements are strict, but we try to be useful for the academy community.
